A Symbol of Love: A Mail Carrier's Taj Mahal

Today, we are bringing you a story about a person in India. He was so much in love with his wife, and he built a Taj Mahal for her after she died.

The person is not a rich man or a king of some big land. This one is just a common man. Faizul Hasan Qadri is an 81-year-old retired post office clerk. Qadri and Tajammuli married in 1953. However, Qadri lost Tajammuli to throat cancer in 2011. After that, he began building his little Taj Mahal in memory of his dear wife.

Qadri wants to finish the building before he dies, and then he wants to be by her side. "I have to do it on my own," he said. For years, Qadri has been building his Taj Mahal outside his house. In fact, he has spent all of his money and sold some of his land to get enough money to finish the job.

Qadri has become a famous person because of his Taj Mahal and his love to Tajammuli. Visitors from all over have come here to see this beautiful symbol of love. Let's pray his dreams come true!

I haven't always been a fan of Christmas. When I was a kid, I saw my dad putting all the gifts under the tree. I was very surprised because I thought a happy old man in a red suit was watching over us. After that happened, I knew Santa Claus wasn't real. Also, when I grew up, I found that everyone tried to find a perfect gift at stores. The holiday felt like a big excuse to go shopping.

However, when a friend of mine invited me to celebrate Christmas with her last year, I started to see things differently. I thought we'd just have a meal together and give each other gifts, but I was wrong. When the day came, she took me to a food bank. We helped sort and deliver bags of food to the people in need. I was scared of getting close to them at first, but that changed quickly. When I handed them their Christmas dinners, they showed nothing but joy, love, and thanks. It was the first real meal in a long time for some of them. Because of that experience, I now know for sure that Santa Claus is real.
